MOTLEY'S DUTCH REPUBLIC.—IDA PFEIFFER'S SECOND JOURNEY ROUND THE WORLD.

THE TEACHER. By JACOB ABBOTT.

HABER & BROTHERS,
Nos. 327 to 335 Pearl-st. (Franklin-square),
Published This Morning:

THE RISE OF THE DUTCH REPUBLIC. A History. By John Lothrop Motley. 3 vols. 8vo, music, 60¢; sheep, $6; half-bound extra, 60¢ extra.

In this valuable contribution to historical literature by an American writer, we find a picture of the rise of a great people, and of their singular celebrity to the names of living. Fresenius, Bancroft, and Histories, in a similar department of composition. It embraces the period from the abdication of Charles V., in 1555, to the death of William III., in 1702. It contains a history of the political, social, and moral condition of the Middle Ages and the dawning light of modern liberty, between the most malignant form of religious bigotry and the infant genius of toleration; between the wormy creeds of monasticism and the purest forms of civil and national existence; those which have since commanded the homage of the world in the person of Washington. The scene is crowded with significant and impressive events, connected with the development of political and religious freedom, with the progress of science, and with the great historical themes to which it is devoted. In beauty and animation of character, his work is not surpassed by any of the classic historical productions which are among the most remarkable literary efforts of the age.

The Revolution of the Netherlands, from its impulsive, well deserves to be treated in a separate and independent narrative. The author's treatment of the subject before us, however, may be expected from the pen of an accomplished countryman. Mr. J. Lothrop Motley, who, during the last five years, for the better prosecution of his labors, has established himself in Holland, and has been writing on the subject of the Dutch Republic, will be the author of a second volume, to be published next year.

No one acquainted with the new powers of mind possessed by the scholar, and the earnestness with which he has devoted himself to the task, can doubt that he will justice to his important but difficult subject."—W. H. PRESCOTT.

Motley's History is a work of which any country might be proud.

"Mr. Motley has searched the whole range of historical documents, especially to the composition of his work. He has in no place, spared pains, and exerted himself to the best advantage.

In a warm and vivid style, depicted, occasionally by the use of strong lights and shadows, he relates the epic story of the victory obtained over the empire of Charles the Fifth, by the fortitude of the small Netherlands nation, driven by oppression almost to frenzy, but never to despair."

MADAME PFEIFFER'S SECOND JOURNEY.—A Journey Round the World, from London to the East Indies, of Good Hope, Borneo, Java, Sumatra, Celebes, Ceram, the Moluccas, &c., California, Panama, Peru, Ecuador, and the United States. By Ida Pfeiffer, authoress of the "Lady's Journey Round the World," 2 vols. 12mo, Music, $12.

This is surely no little entertainment to be had from the narrative of a lady who has eaten her conductor, cutlets, which has sailed in a hollow tree, who has had an audience with the elephant, and has found her last, deeply interesting.

Mr. Motley, preparing a large canvas, colors it richly and freely, introduces a multiplicity of pictorial touches, sketches, as he proceeds, in a characteristic style of his own, to represent the leading features of this particular portion of the earth. The LEDGER's wish will be gratified with a view of the "Lady's Journey Round the World," 2 vols. 12mo, Music, $12.

Every week something rich in the LEDGER will be found.

It is a work of real historical value, and of great interest, and from first to last, deeply interesting.
